MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 23, 1903.

A Vacuum Pressure Experiment. Chemical science has taught us how to overcome the dreaded diseases that have swept away whole cities in the past. It has taught us the manufacture of explosives and raunitions of war and has made possible the greatly, improved modes of travel, and it may be truly said that to chemistry we owe the most material progress the world has made.

While this little experiment will not deal with the hidden secrets that live in the famous laboratories or treat upon the mystic powers of viscosity and relegation, it will show what power the absence of air has in attracting movable substances into the place that has been vacated by the air. Few think when they breathe the atmosphere that surrounds them that it has a pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch or that it can attract even a piece of iron into the space which it

For an example of the strength of air take any tumbler, fill it about half full of tissue paper, set fire to the paper, turn over the glass in a basin contain-ing water about one-half inch deep and then watch the water ascend the interior of the glass.

Didn't Know His Oven Child. At Antietam, just after the artillery had been sharply engaged, the Rockbridge (Va.) battery was standing waiting orders. General Lee rode by and stopped a moment. A dirty faced driver about seventeen said to him: "General, are you going to put us in

Think of such a question from such a source to the general of the army, especially when that general's name was Lee! "Yes, my boy," the stately officer kindly answered, "I have to put you in again. But what is your name? Your face seems familiar somehow."

"I don't wonder you didn't know me, laughed the lad, "I'm so dirty.

But I'm Bob." It was the general's youngest son whom he had thought safe at the Virginia Military institute. "God bless you, my son; do your duty," and the ceneral rode on.

Spoke Too Soon.

Alexandre Dumas was one day the guest of Dr. Gistal, a leading practitioner in Marseilles. After dinner, while the coffee was being handed round, the host requested the great novelist to enrich his album with one of his witty improvisations.

"Certainly," replied Dumas, with a smile, and, drawing out a pencil, he wrote under the eyes of his entertainer the following lines:

Since Dr. Gistal came to our town To cure diseases casual and hereditary The hospital has been pulled down— "You flatterer!" here exclaimed the doctor, mightily pleased; but the poet And we have made a larger cemetery.

Mrs. Hamilton's Ice Cream

Mrs. Alexander Hamilton had the first ice cream in the city of Washing-She used to tell with amusement of the delight with which President Andrew Jackson first tasted it. Guests at the next White House reception were treated to the frozen mystery, and great was the fun of the initiated when they saw the reluctance of others to taste the cold stuff. Those from the rural districts especially eyed it suspiciously, then melted each teaspoonful with the breath before swallowing it. The next time they had a chance they ate it with delight.

It Wanted His Tongue. At an auction sale in a Scotland village the auctioneer was trying to sell a number of domestic utensils, including a porridge pot. As usual, he was making a great fuss. Finishing, his keen eye caught a well known worthy, the beadle, standing at the back of the crowd, and he shouted out:

"Maister McTavish, make me an offer for this pot. Why, it would make a splendid kirk bell." "Aye," replied the beadle, "If your tongue was in it."

Waited Twenty Years For a Solution. A bit of pure and harmless mischief at recitation at Yale was the device of a member of the class of '72, who introduced at recitation a turtle covered by a newspaper paster on the shell. The tutor had too much pride to come down from his perch and solve the mystery of the newspaper movement, but twenty years after, meeting a member of the class, his first and abrupt question was, "Mr. W., what made that paper move?"

"I believe," said the young physician, "that bad cooks supply us with half our patients." "That's right," rejoined the old doctor, "and good cooks supply us with the other half."-Chicago News.

Dolly's Explanation. "Mother, what are twins?" asked little Bobble.

"I know," chimed in Dolly. "Twins is two bables just the same age; three bables is triplets, four is quadrupeds, and five is centipeds."
